Sweeping Majority For Council Manager

1480 Vote For Change and 318 Against Change----Majority Favoring Change Is 1162

ELECT COUNCILMEN IN JUNE

Council Will Elect Business Manager For City—The New Council Will take Over the Affairs of the City September 1, 1922. Already There is Speculation as to Who the Candidates Will Be. Several Names Have Been Suggested—Too Early for Formal Announcement

The old form of city government in Alexandria will be abolished September 1, 1922, and the council manager plan will take its place. The freeholders of the city yesterday decided this question in no unmistakable vote. There were 1480 who voted for changing and 318 cast their ballot to adhere to the present form. The majority for the council manager plan was exactly 1162.

Vote by wards follows: First, for change, 343; against change, 83; second, for change, 293; against change, 87; third, for change, 505; against change, 70; fourth, for change, 338; against change, 78, total, for change, 1480; agaisnt change, 318.

Exactly 1808 votes polled in yesterday's election, ten of which were thrown out in the various wards owing to the fact that they were improperly marked. There are 3875 qualified voters in the city of Alexandria. A total of 2067, therefore, failed to participate in yesterday's election. The election throughout was characterized by apathy.

The polls closed at 5:48 o'clock and soon afterward the returns from every ward were in and the result known to the public. The Gazette furnished the chamber of commerce with the returns almost immediately after they were counted.

Promoters of the change in form of city government were well pleased with the decisive vote cast, especially the members of the chamber of commerce who were active for the new form of government.

The next move will take place next June when five councilmen at large will be elected by the people, doing away with the present city council and mayor. The council at present is composed of twenty-four members and a mayor. The new council after meeting will organize with the selection of a chairman and he will be ex officio mayor. The councilmen elected will serve for a term of four years and will receive compensation

The council will select a business manager. The compensation for the councilmen will be fixed by a commission who will be appointed by the judge of the circuit court in vacation. The compensation will be fixed for one term only. The salary of the business manager is fixed upon by the city council.

Neither the council nor manager have any power to elect or appoint the commonwealth's attorney, treasurer, clerk of the court, city sergeant, superintendent of schools or commission of revenue.

The duties of the business manager will be to adminster all the city's business affairs under the supervision of city council and he keeps the council advised of its needs, financial conditions and the money necessary to run the several departments of the city government and the direction and supervision of all city improvements works and affairs. He appoints all officers designated by the city council and may remove them for neglect, inefficiency or other good cause, but must report all removals to city council at its next meeting.

The business manager, however, is without power to appoint any of the financial or legal officers or the clerical force or other attendants of the council; these are to be appointed by the council and include the corporation attorney, auditor, clerk of the gas, and collector of taxes, and are subject to control and removal by the council alone.

The city manager is required to see to the enforcement of all city ordinances and to the performance of their duties by all city officers and to keep the city council constantly advised of these matters.

Now that the election is over there is considerable speculation on the part of citizens generally as to who will be elected councilman. As already stated five are to be elected at large. Names of several persons already have been suggested as prospective candidates. No formal announcement, however, has as yet been made and probably will not for some time to come inasmuch as the election will not be held till next June.

There also is speculation as to whether or not the business manager will be a local man or a nonresident. The question, however, of the selection of the business manager will be left entirely in the hands of the council and they will have ample time after their election to arrange for a business manager.

Large Crowd Sees High School Defeat Business High of Washington 12 to 0

Fifteen hundred foot-ball enthusiasts saw the High School foot-ball team swamp the team representing Business High of Washington yesterday on Baggett's field by the score of 12 to 0. The weather was just the thing to make a foot-ball team come across with everything it could muster in the way of pep and punch and both teams seemed to have plenty of these qualities, the result was naturally a great game. A. H. S. kicked off at the beginning of the game, Business rushed the ball back up the field, but was unable to make any consistant gains against the Alexandria Boys, Business was forced to kick and Day's attempt was blocked by Fletcher, who scooped it gracfully from the ground and raced for the first touchdown of the official High School season. Midkiff missed goal. In the second quarter Business worked the ball up to within 15 yards of the High School goal but there the line rallied and held for the four downs and Captain Petitt kicked it half way back to the other goal never to have it within striking distance of his goal again. The other score came in the fourth period of the game when the Alexandrians pulled a beautiful trick pass and Dreifus tossed the ball into the waiting arms of Captain Petitt, who easily placed it behind his opponents goal. Dreifus missed goal. In vain did the Washington boys resort to passes in the last few minutes of the play. Business did not complete a single pass, while High School completed four of its five attempts.

The fans predict for Fletcher, a freshman, a glorious High School football career. The team was greatly handicaped by the absence of Hayman, star tackle and Shapiro guard. Every Alexandria boy played excellent and Sprague, half back for Business caused some uneasiness when he would launch himself for a long end run.

PRESIDENT AND CABINET WILL WALK TO GRAVE

Harding Will Head Funeral Procession of Unknown Soldier

PHONES INSTALLED

President's Oration Will Be Carried To All Parts of United States By Telephone.

President Harding and members of his Cabinet will march on foot in the procession here on Armistice Day from the Capitol to Arlington National cemetery where the body of an unknown American soldier will be buried.

This decision was reached yesterday at the meeting of the President and his Cabinet at the White House. Secretary of War Weeks brought up the question of whether the Cabinet would ride or walk, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon said that he was "game" to walk. Mr. Mellon is the oldest member of the Cabinet, and everyone else, including the President, took his attitude.

When the President delivers his address over the body of the unknown hero at the cemetery, two minutes past noon, his voice will be carried clearly and distinctly by long distance wires to New York, Chicago and San Francisco, according to plans for the ceremonies announced by the War Department.

In those cities the address will be heard, through the agency of so-called "loud speakers," by vast audiences. In addition, "loud speakers," hidden in and about the amphitheater at Arlington, will enable anyone within half a mile of the President to hear his words plainly.

Bible Thought for Today

JOY FOR WEEPING:—His anger endureth but a moment: in his favour is life: weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.—Psalm 30:5.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, Oct. 5.—Once again President Harding has had to use a sharp stick on a recalcitrant Republican Congress, this time to remind it that it cannot use the meeting of the arms conference as an excuse for a month's holiday after Nov. 11. Instead, the President has told members of both the House and Senate that they must stay on the job. There are too many things to be done, the President thinks, and Congress has been too leisurely about its methods up to this time, to entitle it to a vacation.

After the German treaty is out of the way and after the tax bill is passed, the President wants Congress to face two live issues that mean much to the business of the whole world as well as to the United States. One of these bills is the one which gives Secretary of the Treasury Mellon broad powers to negotiate foreign countries for the payment or funding of their debts to the United States. Another is that which gives the War Finance Corporation authority to fund railroad securities under the Esch-Cummins law.

Both bills have met with severe opposition in Congress. The war debt bill has been opposed because of its grant of almost unlimited power to the executive branch of the government, a thing which the Republicans so vigorously deplored during the Wilson administration. There is considerable doubt as to whether it can be passed and it is believed that the President's appeal for its passage may be summarily refused.

The Borah Panama canal toll bill will pass the Senate on October 10 the date agreed to for the vote, but there is hardly a question but that will be sidetracked in the house and possibly kept there throughout the time of the arms conference to avoid offense to Great Britain. The anti-beer bill, which has passed through all legislative stages except the Senate's agreement to the conference report, is not on the administration programme but Majority Leader Lodge, in order to get a vote for the German treaty, had to agree to consideration of the beer measure after passage of the tax bill.

Opponents of the beer bill have already indicated that they will attempt to talk it to death and it now appears that this will be no difficult task because of the necessity for action on legislation that will be in line behind the beer bill.

No More Invitations

The invitations to the arms conference, which, like invitations to White House receptions, have been sought for with some eagerness by various nations, have now been closed. Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy and the United States will make up the main group at the conference and will discuss both arms limitation and Far-Eastern affairs. China, Portugal, Holland and Belgium will make up the secondary group and will participate only in the discussions of Far-Eastern affairs.

Holland, Belgium and Portugal, all of which large commercial and territorial interests in the Far-East, are the last to be invited to the conference, as their invitations will not out until today or tomorrow.

Say Treaty Is Incomplete

Admission has been formally made by the State Department that the new treaty with Germany is incomplete to the extent that its ratification, despite former statements to the contrary will not clear up the war relations of the United States. On the contrary, it is now admitted that still another treaty, or possibly a series of treaties will be necessary to clear up war affairs, the newest treaties being on the subject of mandates. The Department confessed that these treaties will have to be made with the allies because the United States is not a party to the Treaty of Versailles which made complete provision for all the matters that will be covered in the new treaties.

Even this treaty on series of treaties will not clear up the matter of the cable terminals at Yap, and that will have to be dealt with in a separate agreement with Japan that must be ratified by the International Communication Conference.

From here, it looks as if the Harding administration will occupy most of its time negotiating treaties that would never have been necessary had the Versailles treaty been ratified.

Reception For Marshall

There is one man in public life who did not leave office after eight years of service with fewer friends that when he went into office. He is Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, whose popularity seems to grow with age, whether he is or out of office. He was a caller at the White House yesterday and was received with such a genuine enthusiasm by the correspondents. White House attaches, the President and the members of the cabinet that there could have been no doubt of the high esteem in which he is held.

Mr. Marshall came to Washington in 1913 rather an obscure man, having been put on the Wilson ticket through the influence of Thomas Taggart. He made one or two unfortunate speeches shortly after the election that caused people to look on him with susnicion and to question his ability to hold high office, but in the years that followed he settled

Intense Interest in Baseball Classic Today at Polo Grounds

TEAMS ON EDGE

Thousands of Fans From all Parts Of the Country Invade Metropolis For Big Series.

New York, Oct. 5.—The dream of the metropolitan baseball fans has become a realty.

For years local followers of the national game have hoped for a World Series battle between the New York National and American League teams. Now, after 19 years of waiting, the Giants and the Yankees, winners of their respective league titles, are to grapple for the supreme prize of professional baseball, the championship of the universe.

On the historic Polo Grunds tomorrow afternoon the rival league 1921 pennant winners meet in the first of a series of best five-out-of-nine games, which is expected to add record breaking features to the long history of the World Series. Led by John McGraw and Miller Huggins, the Giants nad Yankees will scamper out on the diamond shortly after noon with a combination of stars seldom, if ever, equaled in the annals of the game.

Opposed to this galaxy of stars the Giants will offer Frank Frisch, the Fordham flash, one of the fastest infielders that ever played a skinned diamond position; George h Ka ah,eethr Ofiow Y 1 od o orh Kelly, leading home run hitter of the National League; Emil Meusel, brother of the Yankee Bob Meusel, also noted for his extra base hits, Dave Bancroft, one of the most finished shortstops of modern bastball, and Pitchers Tony, Nehf and Barnes, all twirlers extraordinary.

Pythians Get Big Welcome

Keys of City Turned Over to the Visitors

Splendid Addresses Delivered Last Night At The Opening Session Held In Elks' Home

BUSINESS SESSION OPENED

Report Shows Organization In Virginia Gained 3,000 Members During Year Bringing Total in State Up To 11,250—Election of Officers This Afternoon —Pythian Sisters also Convened Here Today and Close This Afternoon With Election of Officers

As Mayor Duncan completed his address of welcome before the opening of the fifty-third annual convention of the Knights of Pythias last night in the auditorium of the Elks' Home, which was a public session, a big wooden key on the stage, draped with an American flag, was illuminated, the flag being raised revealing a key illuminated by hundreds of tiny bulbs of every color of the rainbow. "The key of the city is yours" said the mayor when the drapery was removed and the lights flashed on. The Pythians gave a hearty approbation at this part of the ceremony.

The mayor in his opening remarks congratulated Oriental Lodge No. 6, Knights of Pythias of this city, in bringing such a fine body of men to the city. All he declared are working for the same cause, "America first last and all the time." The mayor assured the visiting Pythians that he wanted them to feel at home and to feel they were the most welcome visitors in the city.

Prior to the opening of the convention selections were given by a section of the Citizens' Band which were greatly enjoyed. The big auditorium was filled to its capacity with delegates, Pythian Sisters, and friends of the organization.

The convention was called to order by C. H. Pendleton, chancellor commander of Oriental Lodge No. 6, of this city, who in a few brief remarks welcomed the delegates and visitors and then introduced John H. Trimyer, of this city, member of Oriental Lodge No. 6, who acted as master of ceremonies. The speaker welcomed the visitors and introduced the mayor

Col. George C. Cabell, Norfolk, supreme vice chancellor, responded to the mayor's welcoming address. In part Col. Cabell said, "We have come to this historic city every foot of whose ground is made sacred by memories of the past. We accept your hospitality in the sense it is intended. When this convention adjourns I make you the assurance that as its members backs are turned homeward none will have cause to regret their coming. Its members as K. P., realize the eyes of the city are upon them. Its members will leave with their deepest gratitude for the generous acts of your people and in the days to come we shall ever recall your good people and in the days to come we shall ever recall your good people and hope you will keep a corner in your hearts for us."

Theodore Harris, editor of the Alexandria Gazette, on behalf of the chamber of commerce, welcomed the Pythians to Alexandria.

S. B. Hammer, Lynchburg, grand chancellor of Virginia, said he was pleased when Alexandria was selected for the 1921 convention it being in the shadow of the National Capitol. Years ago the order he said was established under the direciton of Rathbone. The order he said had made a splendid showing, and that all over the Old Dominion its lodges are active. Concluding he said, "We are here assembled to try and improve and make greater

Domestic Science Class

Girls Friendly Society of Christ Church Start Classes

Last night at Christ Church Parish Hall the Girls' Friendly Society opened its second term of domestic science directed by Mrs. Henry Augustine Latane, graduate of Pratt's Institute of New York, and member of the faculty. The kitchen at the Parish Hall is very well equipped for the furtherance of this particular kind of work but last time the class gave a lawn fete on the rectory grounds to secure funds for more equipment and material. Nearly one hundred dollars was realized, which enables the class to enter this second winter with means to purchase from time to time materials to carry on the work, for this is a free course for the girls, no fee has been requested whatsoever.

Last year elementary instruction was given in dieties and cooking, and members of the Parish had an opportuiity to sample the very delicious products of the kitchen.

The work mapped out for this term is both instructive and interesting covering cooking, food values, chemistry, system in housekeeping and art in the home. One of the

"SHIP AHOY TO MAKE INITIAL BOW TONIGHT

"Ship Ahoy" for Pleasure Bay, on the good ship S. S. Florida. Those wishing to take this delightful pleasure cruise had better make reservations early, as everything points to a sell out. And don't forget this boat load of fun starts at 8:15 sharp from the Opera House dock. Those who are afraid of laughing themselves sick on this sea of fun had better stay at home and go to bed, for things will not be smooth sailing for those on board. The breezy lines are bound to bring on a storm of applause, followed by lightning changes and flashy costumes, and the house no doubt will rock with laughter the entire evening.

Those who will assit in drowning gloom are Allan Roberts, as Billy Brady, who will sing one of the song hits, "Sweetheart in Every Port." Edward Oliver as Johnny Grady, will sing, "My Dream Has At Last Come True," a beautiful waltz ballad, assisted by Evelyn Howard, who works opposite him as Dorothy Brady, "The Bashful Bumble Bee," sung by Mary Nalls, is easily one of the big hits, as well as "Overalls" a very catchy little song by Mr. A. J. Rhodes.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT

William Howard Taft, twenty-seventh president of the United States, has just been sworn in as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Judge Taft is a figure unique in American history. Although of opposite political faith, we would call him, unhesitatingly, the best loved man in public life today. We would go just as far in saying that the millions of our country could unite on no one other man to whom they would pay the same tribute of respect.

People of all political faiths love him for his cheerful optimism, for his stainless private life, for his intense Americanism. They respect him for his unsurpassed intellectual endowment, for his clear vision, for his safe and sane outlook on all the problems that confront the nation today.

His career is one of the strongest evidences that this Republic is born to endure through the Ages. It is perhaps the best argument thus far written in history, in behalf of a government of the people, by the people, for the people. It proves that a Nation such as ours may love a man, may admire and respect him, and still vote against him, without diminution of either. It is a living witness that the great American electorate, when aroused, will cast its ballot only according to the dictates of its reason; that it is to be swayed neither by partiality nor prejudice.

The very virtues of Judge Taft have been his political shortcomings. Had he been gifted as a politician he might have had two terms in the White House. But it is a question if he would have retained his high position in the hearts of his fellow-citizens.

As Chief Justice, the appointment of William Howard Taft has the hearty approval of the entire country. His temperament is essentially judicial. His decisions may be relied upon implicitly to follow both the spirit and the letter of the law. It is in the construction and interpretation of the Constitution of the United States, that great human document of which Gladstone said, "it is the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man"—that Judge Taft will find his main usefulness to the people. Chief Justice Marshall did more to shape the political trend of our government by his labors in the same direction, than any other one agency. We believe Chief Justice Taft to be a worthy successor in what at times is the most important office in the world.

Alexandria has a special interest in this appointment, since the new Chief Justice has been her frequent guest, and has no warmer friends and admirers than are included among her citizens.

We congratulate the people of the country and the new Chief Justice, alike. The former, in that they have been so fortunate in the appointment, and the latter in that, after a long life crowned with honors, his most eminent achievements are yet to come.

WOMEN ON SCHOOL BOARD

The annual election of four members of the Alexandria School Board takes place next Tuesday, October 11. We had been in hopes that a woman might offer for one of the vacancies, but so far no name has been presented. The probability is that the four retiring members will be candidates to succeed themselves.

We have no word to say against any of them, but on general principles we want to see one or more women on this important body. Education is peculiarly a province belonging to women, and they should by all means have a voice in its administration. We must confess our disappointment that Alexandria women seem to think otherwise.

ESTEEMED CONTEMPORARY

We acknowledge receipt of number One, volume One, of "The Last Lap," published by the students of our High School. It is not so long ago that these ambitious young ladies and gentlemen were reposing in that first lap which we all remember so well and cherish so tenderly through life. The "Last Lap" might refer, we take it, to the lap of another Alma Mater, provided by a kindly paternal government, and which they are likewise soon to leave forever.

But probably the name is taken from racing parlance and means that many of them are on the last lap of a race for an education that shall equip them for the sterner duties of life.

This being true, let our young friends remember that the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong—and that character is the one indispensable adjunct of an education.

We admit the well-edited pages and bright paragraphs of the "Last Lap" to our sanctum as one of our most highly esteemed contemporaries.

GRAND LODGE, KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS, OUR GUESTS

Alexandria is proud to welcome the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Virginia, to her hospitality. A finer body of men and women never gathered in her midst than crowded the Elks Hall last night.

The Supreme Vice-Chancellor of the Order, and the two Grand Chancellors of Virginia made splendid addresses, and thoroughly expounded the tenets and principles of an institution that is recognized all over the United States as one of the greatest factors of the time in its ennobling labors.

It is not too much to say that if the doctrines which are exemplified by this Order had a world-wide following, there would be no need of disarmament conferences. Universal peace would pervade the world, and grim-visaged war would become a fast-fading tradition.

The Keys to the city were gracefully turned over to our guests last night by the Mayor, and Alexandria is now in their possession. May their memories of the cradle of human liberty be pleasant and abiding!

UNIVERSITY OF VA. NOTES

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 5.— An opinion and appraisement of the clinical teaching and facilities at the medical school and hospital of the University of Virginia which will probably have an important bearing on the outcome of the joint meeting of the Boards of Visitors of the University of Virginia and the Medical College of Virginia, to be held tomorrow in Richmond, to consider the question of the consolidation of the two state supported medical schools, was disclosed here today by Dean Theodore Hough.

Dr. N. P. Colwell, secretary of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association, upon the basis of whose clinical inspection once every two years the medical schools of the country are given their making, has written his opinion upon the clinical material available at Charlottesville and the method of using it in the medical department of the University of Virginia.

The adequateness of clinical material at Charlottesville has been the most discussed point in the medical school removal controversy and the opinion of Dr. Colwell is certain to carry weight on account of his intimate acquaintance with this phase of medical education throughout the country.

Dr. Colwell's opinion is based upon the findings of five inspections of the medical school and hospital conducted by the American Medical Association since 1907. His letter to Dean Hough follows:

"The hospital clinical material at Charlottesville, in both quantity and quality, meets the min mum requirement of the Council of Medical Education. As to quantity, the inspectors found that the difficulty was not in securing more patients but in finding room for them. By providing more space it was evident that the number of hospital patients would largely exceed the daily average of 220 the number found on the last inspection.

"A more important matter, however, in the opinion of the inspectors was the extent and thoroughness with which the clinical material in the University Hospital was used for medical instruction. The University of Virginia Department of Medicine was one of a score of medical schools which were the earliest to adopt the more modern methods of clinical instruction by the use of bedside section clinics and the assignment of patients to senior students who wrote the histories; made physical examinations, including the essential laboratory investigations; and who regularly visited the patients assigned to them and kept a careful check on the course of the diseases and the results of the treatment given.

"Since the first inspection in 1907, the University of Virginia Department of Medicine has always stood in the Council's highest rank of medical schools, even being in the A class between 1912 and 1916, when that special classification was used This rating was given because of the potent educational atmosphere which all medical teaching was conducted; the high type of medical teachers employed; the unquestioned care with which the rules cover the admission and promotion of students were administered; the thorough manner in which students' work was supervised; and the unusually well arranged routine of clinical instruction.

"Even though the quantity of outpatient material was not as large as that possessed by some medical schools, this was more than offset in the opinion of the inspectors, by an ample supply of hospital material by the excellent use made of it, and the invaluable clinical training which the students secured therefrom. In fact, in the various surveys of medical colleges, the inspectors had frequent occasion to suggest to other institutions that they adopt methods of clinical instruction followed in the University of Virginia Department of Medicine.

"Whatever may be the outcome of the proposed plan to merge the two medical schools of Virginia, it is to be hoped that nothing will hinder the continuation and further development of the excellent methods of clinical instruction which are now being employed in your medical school

THE MONTH OF OCTOBER

The opal is the October birthstone.

October boasts one legal holiday, the 12th which is Columbus Day. The 31st, Hallowe'en although only a survival of ancient custom, is by the small boy considered one of the more important red letter dates on the calendar.

October, in the ancient Roman year, was the eighth month, but in the Julian canedar became the tenth, and thirty-one days were assigned to it, whereas it had formerly had thirty.

Several attempts were made to name this month in honor of the emperors. It was in succession temporarily known as Germanicus, Antoninus, Tacitus and Herculeus, the latter a surname of Commodus.

The Roman senate at one time made an unsuccessful attempt to rechristen October Faustinus in honor of Faustina, wife of Antoninus.

The principal ecclesiastical feasts of October are those of St. Luke on the 18th and St. Simon and St. Jude on the 28th.

The Slavs have known October as the "yellow-month" from the fading of the leaf; the Saxons have known it as the Winter Fylleth, because at this full moon (Fylleth) winter was supposed to begin.

Nevada, on the 31st, in 1864, is the only state that entered the Union in the month of October.

ANOTHER NAVAL CHALLENGE.

We have before us a letter from one of the crew of the U. S. brgiEnterprize, which states that she has received and accepted a challenge from H. B. M. brig Young Emulous. The Enterprize is repairing, and the battle to be fought in 30 days from receipt of the challenge, which was on the 18th inst. The crew of the Enterprize were complimented by citizens of Portland with a public dinner on the 20th.

The Young Emulous, we learn, a few days since, was cruising from off Portsmouts to off Portland, anxious to have a brush with the U. S. brig Rattlesnake, (lying at Portsmouth) or the Enterprize, (at Portland).

STYLES FOR MEN

By Chester Feitel

Simplicity is the keynote of Fall fashions for men's suits. All traces of the novelty garments have been effected by the designers who have replaced them with a vastly more graceful ,practical vogue. One dependent upon superior tailoring and high grade materials for its "class" rather than one trick features as in the past seasons .

The tendency to conservation is more adapted to the well dressed business-man, providing a more dignified bearing conductive to true poise. The sporty suit has been succeeded by one that is more refined and correct.

Quality Mark of Distinction

Relaxing from their efforts to produce the so-called "smart" effects, designers have decreed that suits rely solely on their quality for distinction. Discriminating dressers have always been aware that it is impossible to imitate the elegant simplicity of high grade clothes with cheaper substitutes, so perhaps it was their almost prohibitive prices in the past few years that begot the vogue of extreme suits.

The fact that the clothes purchasing power of a dollar has increased nearly fifty per cent is probably, likewise, accountable for its abolition.

Suits for Fall Graceful

Suits are built along the natural lines of the figures, rendering them easy-fitting and graceful. Don't be misled in believing that the fashion has not its own basic style features, they are as clearly defined as ever, but are of an inbred nature constituted by the lines and tailoring. This permits more latitude in selection and encourages that desired individuality.

From the high school youth to the mature business-man this fashion may be adapted with equal success.

Military Suggestions Gone

Perhaps they lose something by sacrificing the military suggestion that was in evidence, reminiscent of the doughboy's uniform, but on the whole the change in style is distinctly for the better, and the variation is an added charm.

Coats are semi-fitted with generally lower lines. Slightly waisted, several inches lower than in the Spring and Summer suits, and the pockets and lapels are medium notched, long and rolling. A medium vent is used, about eight inches, the shorter vent having proved ungraceful and not suited to the ordinary physique.

As to the number of buttons, it is wholly a matter of choice, usually governed by the type of figure and individual preference. Two, three and four button models seeming to share equal favor.

Double-Breasteds Stronger

There is always a certain quantity of double-breasted coats worn, especially in Fall, and although they are not featured they have also received their share of attention. Noticeable in them are the same proclivities as in the single-breasted models, and they lend themselves so well and readily to this treatment that there is a strong probability of increased popularity as the season advances.

The trousers seem to have struck a happy medium. Neither the tight bottom or bell-shaped trouser legs are to be used but straight and full from the hops down. This is also an evidence of the conservativeness of the prevailing style. They are to be worn quite long, breaking over the shoes without cuffs on the bottom.

Vests Are Cut Lower

Five buttons have been relegated to vests. They are cut a trifle lower with longer points conforming to the general droopy lines of the suit.

Patch pockets were one of the innovations that showed the direct military influence and have been completely eliminated. Succeeding are the plain flapped inserted pockets. It will be noticed also, that they have been dropped several inches to a more natural position.

There is practically no partiality shown as to colors—if any at all is evinced perhaps it is to brown which is always attractive and serviceable and has been somewhat neglected recently. However, green ,grey, blue and mixed materials are amply represented.

Checks and Plaids Liked

An overdose of stripes has directed the choice to herring-bones, checks and plaids for Fall fashions.

Overcoats, of course, show the same designing as suits but are more liberal in their interpretation. Belts are often employed either fully circling or confined to the back of the coats. This produces a trim and jaunty affect relieving that objectionable bundled-up feeling.

Roomy patch pockets are also noted, and successfully further the effect of sturdy outdoor smartness that is correct and permissible in an overcoat.

Variety in Overcoats

Double-breasted models appear to be most favored, but the best manufacturers are also showing some very dapper single-breasted ones, especially in the lighter weight top-coats.

Very few fur-trimmed models are shown, and these confine themselves to a small, detachable collar of seal beaver or otter. Fur-lined coats are only displayed for motoring The fact that the prices of furs have materially reduced might lead one to expect a more general use but the reaction to that all-prevailing simplicity has predominated, banishing their application.

Raglans and Ulsters O. K.

Raglans and ulsters are serviceable and practical, and are built along strong, serviceable lines insuring maximum wear. Some new and attractive materials are used and the colors include shades of brown, green blue and grey, also novelty mixtures.

For more dressy occasions of mild days, top-coats of lighter weight. Most obvious are the distinctive cuts and careful tailoring of these garments. They are quite short, barpast the knee permitting greater freedom for the legs.

Blue and Brown Chosen Colors

These models follow more closely the dictates for the suit coats. Belts and patch pockets rarely being seen—straight semi-fitted backs invariably appear. Blue and black seem to be the chosen colors for these coats.

Remembering the prime requisite of the fall vogues, quality and simplicity, one may expect to see fewer incongruities and more dignified and gracefully suited men this season, for some of the sportiness has been sacrificed this is more than compensated by the acquired distinction.

OFFICER OF AMER. MED. ASSN. PRAISES CLINICAL TEACHING AT UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 5.—Dr. N. P. Colwell, secretary of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association, upon the basis of whose official inspection once every two years the medical schools of the country are given their ranking, has recently written expressing his opinion upon the clinical material and the method using it in medical teaching at the University of Virginia.

No man in the country is in such close touch with medical education nor better qualified to express an authoritative opinion as to the relative efficiency of clinical teaching in different schools. Dr. Colwell's letter removes all doubt as to the adequateness of clinical material available for use at the University of Virginia and his high praise of the University's medical school cannot be overlooked. Dr. Colwell bases his opinion upon five inspections of the medical department of the University since 1907. His letter follows:

"In response to your letter of September 12 I am pleased to make the following statement in regard to clinical material and clinical teaching in the University of Virginia Department of medicine—a statement based on the conditions found at the five different inspections which have been made of that institution since 1907.

"The hospital clinical material at Charlottesville, in both quantity and quality, meets the minimum requirement of the Council on Medical Education. As to quantity the inspectors found that the difficulty was not in securing more patients but in finding room for them. By providing more space it was evident that the number of hospital patients would largely exceed the daily average of 220—the number found on the last inspection.

"A more important matter, however, in the opinion of the inspectors was the extent and thoroughness with which the clinical material in the University Hospital was used for medical instruction. The University of Virginia Department of Medicine was one of a score of medical schools which were the earliest to adopt the more modern methods of clinical instruction by the use of bedside section clinics and the assignment of patients to senior students who wrote the histories; made physical examinations, including the essential laboratory investigations; and who regularly visited the patients assigned to them and kept a careful check on the course of the diseases and the results of the treatment given.

"Since the first inspection in 1907, the University of Virginia Department of Medicine has always stood in the Council's highest rank of medical schools, even being the A plus class between 1912 and 1916, when that special classification was used. This rating was given because of the potent educational atmosphere in which all medical teaching was conducted; the high type of medical teachers employed; the unquestioned care with which the rules covering the admission and promotion of students were administered; the thorough manner in which students' work was supervised; and the unusually well arranged routine of clinical instruction.

"Even though the quantity of outpatient material was not as large as that possessed by some medical schools, this was more than offset, in the opinion of the inspectors, by an ample supply of hospital material, by the excellent use made of it, and the invaluable clinical training which the students secured therefrom. In fact, in the various surveys of medical colleges, the inspectors had frequent occasion to suggest to other institutions that they adopt the methods of clinical instruction followed in the University of Virginia Department of Medicine.

"Whatever may be the outcome of the proposed plan to merge the two medical schools of Virginia, it is to be hoped that nothing will hinder the continuation and further development of the excellent methods of clinical instruction which are now being employed in your medical school."

CHILD'S DRESSES

A blue haze obscures the distant trees, purple against the sky, there is an acrid smell of burning leaves, little valleys of white frost line the ruts in the road, and we are sure that autumn again holds its cherry and colorful sway.

While the leaves are donning their most brilliant hues, at Jack Frost's command, alas that we mortals do not follow suit. Except for here and there a bright jacket, the little folks are getting ready for school, wearing navy blues and browns and the more sombre colors. Thank goodness, bright Tams are possible and sweaters and a bright plaid or two.

One or two of the jersey frocks will not be subdued, however, but blossom forth in jades and tans, cerise and white and other joyous colors.

For School Days

One little jersey frock for school days is of jade green jersey, made very straight with a narrow belt of the green. Cuffs are of putty color, jersey bound with a narrow edge of green. A yoke of putty is bound the same way. Over each hip is a smart little arrangement, a perfectly straight panel made of alternate stripes of putty and green.

Two pretty little frocks suggest themselves for early fall. Perhaps these are not frocks, for they combine a smock with bloomers to match. One set is of red and white gingham, with white collars and cuffs. Black is used for embroidery on the white checks. Another set is practical in pongee. The smock is bound at the round neckline with orchid and also at the cuffs. Flowers very beautifullly done in Japanese embroidery repeat these colors, with jade leaves. The bloomers rejoice in a tiny pocket.

In taffeta, too, comes another set, comprised of smock with matching bloomers. Of navy blue, the smock is trimmed with knife plaiting of taffeta, at the round neckline, sleeves and hem. The front of the smock makes one deep scollop, ending over each hip. At the knee of the bloomers more plaiting appears. A few dainty little accents of red embroidery decorate the neck and yoke.

For a charming party frock, old blue taffeta is combined with coral crepe de chine. Two long aprons, or shall one say panels of taffeta fasten over the shoulders. The bound round ended tab from the front slips through a similar tab from the back. Again at the hem tabs hold the front and back panels together, except that here a pretty ribbon rose is added. The underdress is gay with coral, fluffy with short round puff sleeves. A simple little bound neckline finishes it.

For the Baby Carriage

For the wee infant matched pillows and carriage spreads are shown. One set was beautifully hand drawn in crepe de chine. A star shape of drawn work decorated the center, while the hem was edged with wide Val lace. Another dainty pillow of pink silk covered itself with hand embroidered net, with a wide lace edge. The spread corresponded with white net over pink and wore a large flat pink bow of narrow ribbon.

For school wear for the miss, blouses and plaited skirts will be good and also sailor suits. For a pleated beige jersey skirt, a smart little box coat of duvetyn is designed, fastening with a single button.

A practical crepe de chine dress of simple straight design wears a narow belt. A gingham collar and cuffs add a touch of quaint freshness edging itself with plaiting. Buster Brown must have designed the collar.

Among the coats, the comfortable camel's hair will appear again. Its raglan sleeves are belted at the cuff with a narrow strap and buckle. A high soft collar will button under the young lady's chin, and her coat will fasten with more straps and buckles. The belt, not to be outdone, also rejoices in a buckle.

A cape back that makes a part of the sleeve is the feature of another child's coat, braided in an interesting design. A narrow belt doubles in dont, the way so many of them do. And daughter may tuck her hands into little slit pockets.

There are those who do not like autumn. With all these pretty things to wear, how can they dislike this season?

prove of many of the Wilson policies, Marshall never had occasion to say so publicly.

The temptations that were held up to Marshall during the Wilson incumbency, when Mr. Wilson went abroad and when he lay so sick in the White House that he scarcely knew what was going on and Mrs. Wilson was virtually President, never will be known except to close personal friends of Mr. Marshall but it is a tribute to his supreme honesty that he never failed to laugh at the inducements that were held out to him.

With all this, Mr. Marshall has been a Democrat of the kind that are good to know. He is a real for sure, dyed-in-the-wool Jeffersonian Democrat of the kind that permits no adulteration.

There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves—Nuxated Iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

Stella Promises to Help Mrs. Egret and All Her Relations.

FORMERLY one could buy "algrets", in any shop dealing in feathers, and even though they were exceedingly expensive, they were one of the most sought after trimmings for hats, and women also wore them in their hair as ornaments.

Do you know how it happened that it became unlawful to sell them?

Once upon a time, and it was not so very long ago, a beautiful large white bird flew to see Stella, the Wishing Fairy. Her long tail plumes stretched out behind her as she sped through the air, and they were so delicate and filmy that she looked as she flew like some tiny little lost cloud. When she reached the End-of-the-earth and stood resting on one leg, with the other one tucked up under her wing, these exquisite plumes trailed on the ground like the train of a dainty gown.

Mrs. Egret (for that's who it was) really was very lovely; so lovely that the Brownies gasped in amazement and hurried to fetch their Fairy.

"I've never seen anything so dainty!" exclaimed Pimsia. "Hurry, Stella, dear, and see this wonderful bird!" And the Fairy was so curious that she hurried as fast as she could toward the Get-little-pool, where her visitor was waiting.

"You remind me a bit of the Heron," Stella told her.

"They are my cousins," answered Mrs. Egret.

"But why do you seem so sad?" Stella then asked, as she noticed the wistful look in the bird's eyes. "Aren't you happy?"

"I'm FAR from happy!" the bird said. "In fact, that's really why I've come to you. I have a big, big wish. Will you make it come true for me?"

"What is it?" Stella asked.

"Humans are very cruel, Fairy, dear," Mrs. Egret said thoughtfully; "Women wear egret plumes in their hair or on their hats and they call them 'algrets.' We wouldn't mind if women wanted any others of our feathers; but the particular ones they want, we only have during those weeks when our babies are young and need us. Thousands and thousands of my relations are killed every year, and their helpless little babies are left to starve. It's awful, Stella, and I've come to you to beg you to make Humans sorry for their cruelty . . . to make them stop slaughtering us."

"I will!" the Fairy promised, and there were tears in her eyes—"I certainly will!"

Mrs. Egret was ever so happy and her heart seemed much lighter, on her way home. It had seemed very heavy before . . . almost too heavy to bear, and go on living.

It was very easy for Stella to promise to help, but after Mrs. Egret left her, the tender hearted little Fairy began to wonder just how she was going to keep her promise!

"How shall I ever make Humans stop being cruel?" she asked herself. Then she sat down to think of some way.

That evening she called her Brownies around her.

"I'm going to the World," she told them, "on a very important errand! Pimsia, bring me my magic wand, and Snookums, go fetch me my Butterfly; I shall ride it for it's an awfully long trip from our End-of-the-earth to the Human's World . . . and be good while I am away, my dear Brownies!"

progress than in the past year when we exceeded all previous years. We certainly appreciate this hearty welcome.

Col. Julian Y. Williams, of this city, made a welcoming address on behalf of the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Williams in part said, "Our motto is, 'We Build.' An arch of welcome has been builded here and if I had the eloquence of your George Cabell I would emblazon a welcome to Alexandria. When a convention has the ladies with the men there is a sentiment for a thing worth while. The man who founded the order did his work well."

Concluding Mr. Williams declared that Washington, Mason and Lee will inspire the Pythians and he added that the Pythian Sisters mean a great deal in giving strength to its members.

R. H. Bell, Jr., Staunton, grand keeper of records and seals, responded to Mr. Williams' address. The speaker said that a few weeks ago he visited Oriental Lodge here and that J. T. Luckett, of this city, explained to him that the Elks had given the use of their hall for the convention and the Odd Fellows also had turned their hall and the Kiwanis Club and Chamber of Commerce had donated their places to the Pythians and he added that he remarked it was an example of brotherly love and fraternity.

Mr. Bell said this was his nineteenth convention to attend. Never in his experience he said had the grand lodge had such fraternal spirit exemplified as was shown here. Mr. Bell said Alexandria has the heartfelt gratitude of Pythians for the manner in which the visitors were welcomed.

A short response to Mr. Bell's address was delivered by Mrs. Elsie E. Vandervort, of Washington, supreme guard of the Pythian Sisters, who took the place of Mrs. Margaret Sacrey, of Fredericksburg, grand chief Pythian Sisters.

The speaker explained that the Pythian Sisters is an auxiliary to the Knights of Pythias and its virtues are "Purity, Love, Equality and Friendship." There is no branch of the Pythian Sisters here she said and expressed hope that in the near future one would be established in this city.

B. A. Ruffin, Richmond, past grand chancellor, in an address hearkened back to early days in ancient Greece, drawing his hearers back to the days of the new republic and coming to the present time. Mr. Ruffin said, "Emerging as we are from the great war with class arrayed against class, man has listened to fraternity more than ever. The priciples of our order said Mr. Ruffin are loyally to our country and we are against socialism, bolshevisim and Klu Klux Klan.

Continuing he said, "The K. of P. is a better and cleaner man if he has a woman to guide him."

In closing the public session John H. Trimyer said: "Let me say that while you brothers have received expressions of welcome from the mayor and other organizations I want to say to you that as a plain citizen that it was here in this city that freedom, liberty of thought and government of the people, by the people and for the people was made. It is in Alexandria that men staked their all for the freedom you enjoy today. Here George Washington walked the streets, and our city is replete with glorious history. Alexandria, however, is not living on the past but is standing on the present with its face to the future. We are proud of the K. P., and deem it an honor that you have met here and hope you will carry back with your memories of hospitality, friendship and brotherly love.

The Knights of Pythias of Virginia gained 3,000 members during the past year bringing the total membership in the state up to 11,250 according to the annual report of R. H. Bell, Jr., Staunton, grand keeper of records and seals submitted at the opening of the business session of the fifty-third annual convention of that organization in the auditorium of the Elks' Home today. The report was received with applause by the members of the order.

The grand lodge was addressed by W. R. O'Neil, of Florida, Mr. O'Neil represents the board of control of the insurance department of the order and he spoke on that feature of the organization. The remainder of the day was given over to the receiving of reports.

The convention adjourned at 12:30 o'clock for luncheon and the business session was resumed at 1:30 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the annual election of officers is scheduled to take place and the business sessions for the day probably will end about 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Many of the members tonight will attend a dance in Odd Fellows' Hall in honor of the Pythian Sisters who are also in sesion here. The gain in membership during the past year will entitle the state convention to the third supreme representative, and Capt. J. T. Bailey of Richmond, who for the past ten years served as grand master of exchequer will be chosen for that position.

The sessions are being presided over by S. B. Hammer, Lynchburg, grand chancellor and the opening prayer was made by Dr. W. E. Ritter, Whitewood, grand prelate.

The grand lodge last night elected seventy-five past chancellors to a seat in the grand lodge and the work was conferred by grand lodge officers.

The final business session of the convention will convene at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The business tomorrow will be mostly routine and include receiving of reports.

At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a contest for the $250 grand lodge trophy between Osceola Lodge No. 47, of Roanoke, and Rathbone Lodge No. 93, of Norfolk, at which time the rank of Page will be conferred. This trophy last year was won by Osceola Lodge.

This contest will take place in the auditorium of the Elks' Home.

At night the rank of Knight will be conferred by Oriental Lodge of this city, and Syracusian Lodge No. 10, of Washington. This work will be conferred on a class of fifteen candidates and will take place in the Young People's Building.

The automobile trip to points of interest here and in Washington was canceled owing to business.

The race for the selection of the next convention city will be determined tomorow. Three cities are now seeking the convention and they are Norfolk, Roanoke and Danville, the last named city coming forward since yesterday.

The Pythian Sisters with about seventy-five in attendance, including thirty delegates, assembled at 9:30 o'clock this morning in annual session in the Pythian Temple on Cameron street, Mrs. Margaret Sacrey, of Fredericksburg, grand chief Pythian sister presiding. The Temples are represented at this gathering.

The report of the mistress of records and correspondence showed a growth of 500 members during the past year bringing the total membership of the order in the state up to 1400.

At noon memorial exercises were held for the members who died during the past year. The election of officers about 4 o'clock this afternoon will bring the exercises to a close.

most vital needs in the world today is better and more intelligent home management, and that will only be realized by recognizing the importance in training our girls to be real home makers. The proper adjustment of the family budget, the judicious expenditure of money, the pleasing, restful surroundings of the home, taste not money necessary, well cooked and well served meals bring the happiness that comes to a well ordered household. Mrs. Latane is especially well qualified to show the girls the fundamentals upon which to build a happy home.

This class was organized last January for the Girls Friendly Society, but this fall the request has been so urgent from those outside the Parish that Mrs. Latane has consented to admit them to the class.

Last night the officers and teachers of the Sunday School requested that the class furnish them a supper at the November meeting and another supper order was given for the Young Men's Bible Class for December during the Chistmas holidays

The Girls Friendly Society of Christ Church celebrated its 31st birthday last May, and is one of the most active and wide awake organizations of the Parish.

ALEXANDRIA PLAYGROUNDS

Local Association Doing Great Work

For the past 6 years the Playground Association was using the Washington School Grounds and the Lee School Grounds that were loaned to them through the courtesy of the School Board, and there were no funds to carry on the work for the winter. Now, however, possessing both grounds and teacher the results are justifying the expectations of its enthusiastic Board Members. The parents of the children are loud in their praisees and Chief of Police Goods says that the Friend's Playground has been of great assistance to the force in caring for some of the liveliest children of Alexandria, for during the months of July, August and September the official record of the Friend's Playground shows that the attendance has been over 20,000 men, Women and children. Last week two clubs were formed, the Boy's Athletic Club and also a club for Girls, besides sports the girls are making other plans for the winter program. Between the ages of 12 and 15 years three Schlag teams have been organized, two girls teams and one boy's team, and for the older ones basket ball and football are most popular.

During the fall when outdoors sports are so much enjoyed, the following schedule will be observed:

Daily Program

12-12:50 Kindergarten, ring games, folk dances.

12:50-1:20 Free play.

1:20-2:30 Games, stories, quiet games.

2:30-3:00 Free play.

3:00-4:50 High and low organized games.

4:50-5:30 Games, high organized, athletics.

5:30-6:10 Games, high organized ring games.

The High organized games comprize basket ball, foot ball, volley abll, base ball, schlag and games of that nature. Low organized games, dodge ball, captain ball, slap jack, fox and chickens, Ispy, etc. This is one of the happiest, liveliest spots in Alexandrai.

The disarmament conference will meet in Washington on Armistice Day, it is now proposed, and remain in session for month. This will enable the Washington hotels to get back the money that Europe borrowed.—Los Angeles Times.

"MISS ALEXANDRIA"

Whose fault is it when your husband is cross at breakfast?

If you hit your thumb with a hammer you wouldn't blame your thumb for hurting.

Then why blame your husband whose nerves may have been pounded by coffee, and whose rest probably has been broken by the irritation of the caffeine it contains?

If you stay awake half the night you don't feel any too cheerful.

The caffeine of coffee and the thein of tea are known drugs. If their use is persisted in, sooner or later the nervous system may give way.

Then you may have insomnia, or disturbed sleep. Your nerves and tissues will be robbed of that stability essential for normal and happy living.

You can avoid this possibility if you'll stop drinking tea and coffee and drink instead, rich, pleasing Postum.

Postum is the delicious cereal beverage with a coffee-like flavor. It affords the advantages of a hot drink, without the ill effects of tea or coffee.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Try it with the family for a few days, and see what a difference there'll be—how it will permit Nature to bring sound sleep and strong, sturdy, quiet nerves. Sold by grocers.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

HEALTH IS A WOMAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Contrast the chefreluvitJw1 38ET

Contrast the cheerful happy woman with head erect, the glow of health on her cheeks, the elastic step and bubbling enthusiasm as she goes about her daily tasks, with the woman who suffers from backache, head aches, dragging-down pains, nervousness and despondency. Such conditions are undoubtedly caused by woman's ailments which will yield to Lydia E. Every woman who suffers in this way owes it to herself to at least give it a trial.

What Happened in Des Moines No. 6

Fortunately for the bus owners, the weather was fine during the first few weeks after the cars stopped running.

Thousands walked, and, in the bright autumn weather, it was not so bad as riding a rickety, crowded bus.

But one day rain fell. The following item from the Des Moines Capital, tells what happened then:

BUSES INADEQUATE AS RAIN DESCENDS

Vehicles Fill to Overflowing at Ends of Route

Groups of disconsolate men and women standing on street corners holding umbrellas against the cold, gray rain, gave widespread evidence today that buses do not provide comfortable rainy-weather transportation.

Today's was the first rain since the street cars stopped that came at the time of the morning rush to work.

As a result there were unhappy knots of waiters at hundreds of street corners, and unhappy folk who had grown tired of waiting, sloshing over wet sidewalks toward town. Waits of twenty to forty minutes were not uncommon.

On many routes, buses filled rapidly at the end of the lines and "passed up" scores of other located nearer the city but too far from the business section to walk.

Inadequate fares and unrestricted bus competition forced the Des Moines' street railway to abandon all city service—over 92 miles of line—on August 4, 1921.
